

Docker Training and Certification

Create better business outcomes with Docker training and certification. Let ExitCertified show you how.

As an Authorized Training Partner of Docker, ExitCertified delivers Docker training throughout North America. We can guide you in your journey to build knowledge and expertise with training so you can better leverage opportunities made possible by Docker technologies.

Increase your business outcomes faster

ExitCertified can guide your business in the digital transformation of your application portfolio by building knowledge and expertise with Docker, a container platform engineered to support on-premises, cloud and hybrid architectures. Docker customers who invest in training recognize specific benefits from their Docker implementation, including accelerated application deployment, faster product adoption and increased return on investment. These benefits are even more evident when managed by Docker-certified IT staff.

Learn Docker technologies your way

For developers, operators and architects, we offer all the training you'll need to build a strong foundation in Docker technologies and become certified on this popular container platform. With ExitCertified you get access to Docker courseware in whatever format best suits your learning needs—whether it's through in-person courses, virtual classroom or a private session at your location. Learn from award-winning instructors and acquire skills that benefit your organization in a way that best fits your learning style.

Experience iMVP®: Premium virtual training

Get an in-class experience, no matter where you are. With iMVP, you can attend a live instructor-led class from your home or office and participate in the course through lab environments, slides, whiteboard and/or lectures. iMVP also has two-way voice and video, putting you face to face with the instructor and other students so you can ask questions and hear from others as if you were sitting in the same room. We even send you a headset and webcam so you'll have everything you need.

Simplify budgeting and managing with ExitCertified's Flex Account

You can buy a full year's training in advance at pre-discounted prices with an ExitCertified Flex Account, enabling you to allocate courses as needed throughout your organization. And because each course costs you less, you'll be getting more training from each year's budget, with fewer worries about unused training dollars. Additionally, you can apply your Flex credits to Docker and other training offered through ExitCertified.
